Pensions and 3 Other Issues In State Swamped

Pastor Who Headed $50-at-60 Campaign Says He's Mapping Referendum for '40 Election; Initiative, Civil Service, School Proposals Scuttled.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS—Ohio refused decisively in Tuesday's election to guarantee income subsidies to residents over 60—but today faced a threat of having to vote on the same thing in 1940.

The margin of defeat exceeded 3 to 1, the most smashing ever administered a proposed constitutional amendment according to the secretary of state's office. Not one of the 88 counties approved the plan for monthly payments of $50 to retired single persons and $80 to couples.

Hopes of opponents, who forecast heavy tax burdens and "humiliation and ruin" for Ohio if the plan were approved, that an overwhelming victory would kill the pension movement were short-lived.

"The sentiment of the people will not accept this defeat," asserted Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow after conceding defeat for this amendment and one to liberalize the process of initiating amendments and laws. He sponsored both.

Returns tabulated by the secretary of state from 8,568 of the state's 8,589 precincts showed: Bigelow pension amendment—458,755 for, 1,521,507 against. Bigelow initiative amendment—402,140 for, 1,463,793 against.

Bigelow announced immediately that he had begun working on a new amendment, which he hopes to offer at the 1940 election. It called tentatively for $50 for single persons and $100 for couples. He planned to make certain changes in working to make it all-right against attack.

Two other state-wide issues also were defeated badly as the controversy over the Bigelow amendment attracted the heaviest "off year" vote since liquor prohibition was repealed in 1923. Legislative acts to add a third member to the state civil service commission and permit summary discharge of provisional employees and to establish a state board of education which would take over from the governor the power of appointing a state director.

Democratic leaders hailed the results on these issues as a party victory since they had campaigned against the acts which (Continued on Page 7, Col. 4)

County Swamps 2 Bigelow Plans By Vote of 4 to 1

Following a state-wide trend, Richland county voters yesterday cast an overwhelming vote against both the Bigelow pension plan and the Bigelow initiative amendment, complete unofficial returns showed today.

Both issues were swamped under a four to one vote. The vote on the pension plan was 17,249 against and 4,485 for, while the vote cast on the initiative proposal was 16,788 against and 3,728 for.

The county vote against the issues surpassed the state figure which showed a three to one vote against the proposals.

All but one of the 50 precincts in Mansfield turned down the Bigelow plan as the city voted better than 3 to 1 to help defeat the schemes. The count here was 9,168 against and 2,491 for.

The only precinct backing the pension proposal was 5 E which endorsed Bigelow's idea, 69 to 49. The county also voted against two other state issues, a proposal to create a state board of education and the civil service referendum.

The vote cast in the county's 91 precincts in the board of education proposal was 12,662 against and 7,671 for. The vote on civil service bill was 12,928 against and 6,120 for.

New Mansfield Mayor, Some of His 'Family'

MARION D. WARD, JR.

JUDGE SWEEPS EVERY PRECINCT

Kalbfleisch Returned to Muny Bench for Second Term by Vote of Nearly 2 to 1.

Sweeping every precinct in the city as well as the Madison township precincts in the district, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch was returned to the municipal bench for another four-year term in Tuesday's election.

He defeated Attorney George H. Blecker by a vote that fell slightly short of being a 2 to 1 margin. The complete official figures were Kalbfleisch 7,765 and Blecker 4,301.

While Kalbfleisch carried all six city wards, he showed his greatest strength in the normally Republican precincts. He took the Second and Third wards by better than a 2 to 1 margin, and took the First by almost a 2 to 1 majority.

Though the judicial contest is on a non-partisan basis, Kalbfleisch is a Republican, and Blecker a Democrat. Each has served his party in the past as county prosecutor.

Blecker made his best showing in the fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards. He came within 12 votes of taking Precinct B of the Third ward, where the vote was 100 for Blecker to 112 for Kalbfleisch.

Kalbfleisch will start his new term on Jan. 1, along with other city officials elected yesterday. He succeeded former Judge R. E. Hutchison on the municipal bench. He served two terms as county prosecutor, being the first Republican to win two terms in that office. He held that post from 1929 to 1933.

"I am deeply grateful to all my loyal friends and supporters," Judge Kalbfleisch said today, "and I feel that the victory is really theirs."

Mansfield's new Republican mayor-elect, William J. Locke, insurance man, is shown here with some of the members of his "official" family. Locke, victor over Democratic Mayor Claude M. Hunter, is yesterday's election, was elected in his first venture into politics.

Shown with him above are Paul L. Kelley, Democratic city auditor, re-elected; Republican Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, re-elected; Marion D. Ward, Jr., Democratic city solicitor, who retains his post and Glenn A. Davidson, incumbent city treasurer, a Democrat.

Mayor-Elect 'Celebrates' By Hunting Elusive Bunny

Enthusiastic Sportsman, Locke Forgets Politics to Roam Wyandot County Fields With Old Pal.

By JANE WILLIAMS
William J. Locke, mayor-elect of Mansfield, is not sitting in his office today receiving congratulations of citizens on his successful campaign for Mansfield's highest municipal office. He is not holding one of those enjoyable post mortems—enjoyable for the winners—on the morning after election, nor explaining why he won and why his opponent lost.

He's tramping over the brown fields of Wyandot county with a gun and hunting companion of many seasons at his side. And he is NOT talking politics. He announced his plans for today shortly after midnight when his election was assured.

Sitting in The News-Journal office, and glancing out of the window occasionally to the screen across the street on which was reflected the latest returns—"40 out of 50 city precincts give Locke 5,525; Hunter, 4,262" he said.

"I'm going hunting tomorrow on the plains over around Upper Sandusky, with an old friend whom I've hunted with for about 12 years. I'm leaving Mansfield Wednesday morning and I'll be back late Thursday afternoon. And there'll be no talk of politics or elections," he said. "Wasn't it lucky for me that the hunting season opened the day after election?" (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Cruiser Breaks Down Again, Near New York Town.

PAVILION, N. Y.—(AP)—The Byrd expedition's ill-starred antarctic snow cruiser broke down again today in Genesee county, and Corporal T. F. Martin of Avon police substation said "no body seems to know when they'll get it started again."

First reports, Corp. Martin said, were that the right front wheel brake had "frozen," but later word was the huge machine's motors were in trouble.

KILLED IN CRASH

Former Knox Political Leader Dies as Auto Hits Truck.

MILLERSBURG—James Edmonds, 53, Mt. Vernon salesman and former Knox county Democratic executive committee chairman, was instantly killed at 5 p. m. Tuesday in an automobile-truck collision two miles west of Millersburg.

Edmonds, a salesman for the Kober-Dowds Wholesale Grocery company in Mt. Vernon, received a broken neck and crushed chest when his car crashed into a truck on a curve on route 39.

Sheriff Harry R. Weiss said Edmonds' car apparently side-swiped the truck on a slippery highway. The truck, driven by Mark Lawless, 34, of Dover over-turned, but Lawless escaped injury.

Edmonds is survived by his wife at Mt. Vernon and his parents who live in Fredericktown. The body was taken to the Elliott Funeral home in Millersburg pending the completion of funeral arrangements.

CAMBRIDGE—(AP)—Sunday movies, never permitted in Cambridge, had been rejected for the second straight year today. Cambridge voters also turned down three one-mill municipal tax levies and a one-mill levy for relief purposes.

SCHOOLS SCORE VICTORY IN LEVY

3-Mill Tax, Renewed for Five More Years, Only Special Issue to Get Majority.

Alone among the special issues to pass, the three-mill school levy to provide operating funds for the Mansfield city school system was approved at Tuesday's election.

The total vote was 7,608 for the levy and 4,450 against. Only a simple majority was required for passage.

Voters in every section of the city joined to give the levy a majority that approached 2 to 1 proportions. It carried in all six wards of the city, and lost but four precincts out of 52 (three precincts in Madison township in addition to the 30 in the city are in the Mansfield school district.)

The second ward gave the levy its greatest margin, 1,472 to 518, or approximately 3 to 1, while in the First and Third the measure received almost a 2 to 1 majority.

The levy is a renewal for five years of a tax that has been in effect for 15 years, but which expires this year. In campaigning (Continued on Page 18, Col. 4)

Belgian-Netherlands Peace Offer Fails to Spur Hopes

(By Associated Press)

Proffered mediation by the monarchs of Belgium and the Netherlands raised only scant hopes today for European peace. The three nations who received the offer, Britain, France and Germany, said only that they would consider it.

Britain said consultations with France would be held before replying.

Unofficial French quarters said the Paris press quoted "no" would be the French answer. Germany's reply was pondered by Adolf Hitler, who "welcomed" a similar offer Aug. 29, three days before the German invasion of Poland started.

Mayor Race By 1,500 Majority

Democrats Take Most of Others Offices, Kelley, Ward and Davidson Renamed, Miller Heads Council; Kalbfleisch Has Biggest Majority, 3,526.

William J. Locke, a Republican who has never held a political office, will be Mansfield's mayor for the next two years.

Swept into office by a majority of nearly 1,500 votes over Mayor Claude M. Hunter, a Democrat, who sought a second term, Locke will be the lone Republican in an administrative office at the city building.

The unofficial count gave Locke 7,035 votes and Hunter 5,599.

The four other major city offices will be filled by Democrats and the Democratic majority in council was increased from five-to-four to six-to-three in yesterday's voting. It marked the 12th consecutive year that the Democrats have elected a majority in council.

A total of 12,874 Mansfielders went to the polls Tuesday in one of the heaviest "off-year" votes in the city's history. The vote was slightly above the election board's prediction of 12,000 and fell short of The News-Journal's forecast by 1,600. A steady rain which fell during most of the afternoon is believed to have kept a large number of voters at home.

Dems Gain 6 to 3 Edge In Council

By virtue of a gain in the last-minute count of figures, Democrats gained an extra seat in the council that will handle the city's legislative affairs for the next two years, and will hold, as a result, a 6-3 edge over the Republican membership instead of the 5-4 margin of the past two years.

Trailing until the last ballots were counted, Harry Emmons, Democratic incumbent councilman-at-large, rallied to defeat James R. Anderson, Republican, by the narrow margin of 26 votes, which gave the Democrats their sixth place on council and cut the Republicans to three. The vote in this contest was Emmons 5662, Anderson 5636.

City hall observers recalled today that when the new council takes office it would mark the 12th straight year that Mansfield has had a Democratic council.

In the last 18 years, the city has had a Republican mayor 10 years and a Democratic chief executive eight.

BARRAGE ON

500,000 Hunters Go Out for Rabbits, Pheasants Today.

The vanguard of an estimated 500,000 hunters invaded Ohio fields at noon today as the season opened with predictions of the conservation division for the best rabbit and pheasant hunting in many years.

An abundance of rabbits was reported in this county and other sections of the state, thanks to a summer ideal for propagation, the importation of 43,000 western rabbits and the transfer of cotton tails from one area to another in a state game management program.

Bag limits are two cock pheasants a day and four in possession after the first day; four partridges per day or in possession after the first day; four rabbits per day or in possession.

A few hours before the offer reached London, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax broadcast a speech repeating a broad outline of war aims for "a new world in which the nations will not permit insane armed rivalry to deny their hopes of a fuller life." His speech had been planned several days ago.

Grateful For Voters' Confidence—Locke.

After his election was conceded about 11:30 p. m. last night, Mayor-elect Locke issued this statement:

getting power, taking 37 of the city's 50 precincts and piling up majorities in four of the six wards. He ran far ahead of his ticket as some of his Republican running mates lost by as much as 2,370 votes.

Locke Victory Seen Early.

Defeat of Mayor Hunter was apparent almost from the beginning, as early returns from the usually heavily Democratic Fifth ward showed Locke trailing by only a slight margin. Mayor Hunter held a slight edge early in the tabulation but it was wiped out quickly as returns from the normally Republican wards came in.

Precinct E of the Fifth ward, first to report, gave Hunter 115 votes to 103 for Locke, but it forecast what was to happen. The same precinct two years ago voted 224 for Hunter as (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Controversy Grows Over Transfer of Ships to Panama

BORAH FLAYS ROOSEVELT ON TRADE ISSUE

"Will He Protect Panama?" He Asks as President Says
Neutrality's Intact.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The controversy over proposed transfer of eight American merchant ships to Panamanian registry appears to be growing today despite President Roosevelt's order to the maritime commission to hold up a decision.

Senator Borah (R., Idaho) promptly took issue with a presidential comment to reporters at Hyde Park, N. Y., that neutrality questions are not involved.

"Suppose Panama, in spite of her great navy, fails to protect these ships and they are sunk?" Borah asked in a statement. "Will we not go to the protection of Panama?"

"Panama, from a viewpoint of national defense, is a part of the United States. Besides, she comes under the good neighbor policy and the Monroe doctrine."

Calls It "Subterfuge."

The senator, who took a leading part in the fight against the new neutrality law, called the proposal "manifestly a subterfuge" to evade provisions in the act forbidding American ships from entering belligerent ports. The eight vessels owned by the United States Lines, have been in transatlantic service, and could continue on that route if sold to a foreign corporation.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed the belief yesterday that the United States could not be involved in an international incident if one of the transferred vessels was sunk while flying the Panamanian flag.

He pointed out that no Americans, under the neutrality law, could serve as officers or crew members of ships entering western European waters. Furthermore, he said, any American has a right to sell property or transfer its title to a neutral.

The president said, though, that he had asked the maritime commission for a delay so that he could check personally on the relation of the proposed sale to defense plans and to foreign shipping competition.

In commenting on defense interests, he made plain his belief that the United States was in no danger of becoming involved in a war.

In regard to foreign competition, he said, the problem is to prevent some neutral nation in peacetime from offering high prices and buying up entire American ship lines. For example, he said, should Germany or Italy or some other country try to buy up a line and thus end United States competition in Latin America, permission would be refused.

Another candidate for the "meanest person" title is the man who gave Donald Moore, blind operator of the confection stand at General hospital, a scrap of paper for a dollar bill and collected 95 cents in change. Moore said the customer purchased a five-cent soft drink and gave him the crinkly piece of paper which proved to be only a blank check.

Emil Lengyel, Hungarian-born author and journalist, who speaks at Senior high school auditorium tonight under the auspices of Delano lodge, comes to Mansfield at a time when his prestige is expanding in America. His latest book on Europe "The Danube" is just published and was added to the Public library shelves last week, and this week he has an illustrated article in Look magazine on "Who'll Get the Balkans—Hitler or Stalin?" Lengyel wrote the first book published on Adolf Hitler, and his new volume deals with the nations and people who live in the area of the Danube. His address tonight, which is scheduled at 8:15, is free to the public.

Ohio State football fans of Mansfield will go to Ann Arbor for the Bucks' annual game late this month with Michigan in style if present plans do not go awry. First it was proposed to charter a special train as there were that many in the city who thought they'd be interested in going to the game, but this was discouraged by railroad officials due to lack of "parking" facilities on Ann Arbor tracks. So the Ohio State alumni chapter here headed by Dr. Harry L. Knox, is planning to charter a special car, in fact two of them, Knox says.

Either Richland county is being overrun with wild deer or else one deer is doing a lot of running around. Deer hasn't been a native of the county for almost 75 years, but several months ago one was sighted in the southern part of the county. Yesterday a News-Journal cameraman got within "shooting" distance of a four-point buck near Olivesburg and took a picture of it. Today Fred Dawson, two miles south of Shiloh sighted a three-point buck eating in his cornfield, and Floyd Hannon, who resides in the same vicinity reported that a deer came close to his house. Whether it is one and the same animal hasn't been determined.

W. C. Whitcomb Elected Mayor
at Perrysville.

PERRYSVILLE—W. C. Whitcomb was elected mayor of Perrysville by a majority of 30 votes, defeating Charles Miller, incumbent, who was seeking his third term. All the newly-elected officials were listed on Independent tickets.

Olive Pollard was re-elected to the office of city clerk by defeating G. Britton; Retha Peterson was unopposed for Greene township clerk, as was L. W. Truman for county treasurer. Others elected were: G. E. Gladwin, D. P. Hiner, Henry Orr, C. P. Mann, Neal McClure and G. C. Wise, council; B. F. Cowell, constable; B. Herman, D. D. Hiner and L. Zody, board of public affairs; J. Nigh and H. Pifer, board of education.

The bond issue was defeated, the final count being, for 128, against 150, as was the proposed Bigelow pension amendment by a vote of 33 yes, and 218 no.

PUTS OKAY ON TAX BOND SALE

Council Gives Approval to $25,000 Issue Purchased
by Citizens Bank.

The sale to the Citizens National Bank and Trust company of $25,000 in delinquent tax bonds, issued to finance the city's relief burden for the balance of the year, was approved last night by city council.

The Citizens bank, lowest of nine bidders was awarded the issue at a two per cent interest rate and a $72 premium. It was one of the three unconditional bids, all of which were submitted by Mansfield banks.

The bonds were issued by the city in anticipation of the collection of delinquent taxes and are expected to finance the relief burden for the balance of 1939.

With the city already $12,000 in debt to merchants for food supplied indigents, funds received from the bond sale will pay off the indebtedness and with monthly allocations from the state is expected to meet the expense during the next two months.

Council last night also authorized the borrowing of $14,082 in anticipation of the collection of special assessments to finance improvements to be made on five streets.

These include the construction of a sanitary sewer on Chilton avenue, the resurfacing of Augustin avenue, the construction of curbs and gutters on Coleman road, and the grading and graveling of Lawnview and Fairlawn avenues.

They told Glattke that they were "tired of being fugitives." They did not immediately say where they had spent the past four months.

Both were serving one to 20-year terms when they escaped from the farm on July 2. Hoover was sentenced Oct. 27, 1938, and Pivinski on Oct. 23, 1937.

Glattke said because they returned of their own volition they would be required to serve only six months' additional time, instead of the customary two years.

PILOT TELLS OF MYSTERY CALLS ON TELEPHONE

Screen Actress Tells Mate
She's Held Captive in West Coast Town.

(By International News Service)
LOS ANGELES—A report that his wife, Laswell Byars, 21-year-old movie actress, had disappeared and apparently was kidnapped was made to police early today by George Byars, test pilot. San Francisco authorities were asked to search for the young woman.

Byars declared in a signed report that he received a telephone call Monday afternoon from his wife, who said she was going to Republic studio to see about a forthcoming film assignment, but that she failed to come home for dinner.

About 11 o'clock that night, he said, he answered his telephone and heard his wife's voice.

"Where are you?" he asked. "I don't know," she replied. "To additional questions his wife answered only 'yes' or 'no,' and he 'sensed there was something wrong,'" Byars informed Detective Lieut. Compton Dixon.

Byars said the telephone operator traced the call to a town near Oxnard and that he sped in his automobile to the town, hoping to overtake his wife and the man but failed to find them.

Last night, he continued, he received another call from his wife, this time from a hotel in San Francisco. Again it was a "yes" and "no" conversation, with Byars asking: "Has he got a gun on you?" "Yes."

"Won't he let you loose?" "No."

Byars told officers he would sign a district attorney's complaint against a man he suspects of having kidnapped his wife.

BONDS WIN South Boulevards Gives Issue 81 Per Cent Majority.

South Boulevards, the six-month-old village south of Mansfield, voted a $27,500 bond issue for a sewage system by the huge majority of 133 to 18 in yesterday's election—a favorable vote of 81 per cent, while they needed only 65 per cent.

The bond issue, principal reason for incorporation of the village last May, was the center of interest in the election since there were no contests for village offices.

Sale of the bonds will provide the village's share of the cost of a $100,000 WPA sewage project. E. C. Flory was elected mayor to succeed Dr. C. W. Frickman, who was not a candidate for reelection.

Others elected were H. B. Scoles, clerk; C. W. Barnes, treasurer; J. J. Swisher, marshal; A. C. Hunter, Lester Lown, Charles T. Swisher, W. S. Valmore, R. S. BeMiller and D. L. Divelbiss, councilmen; H. L. Rist, L. C. Baumgardner and W. L. Buck, members of board of public affairs.

GEN. JOHNSON:

There Are Sound Reasons
Why no War Boom Has Yet
Developed In the Country

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK—One reason for not expecting an American war boom is that in this static war there is no such consumption of goods as occurred in the World war.

A soldier in an active campaign consumes from three to eight times as much food, cloth, leather and steel as the same individual in civilian life. But a soldier inactive in billets and barracks or camp uses little if any more of these commodities than a civilian.

In the World war the furious activity brought a consumption of food and textiles and a destruction of metals and chemicals that was terrific. In April, 1917, 800,000 tons of shipping were sunk. Ships were the bottleneck of all supply programs. In this country the ship-building program was the principal customer for steel and other metals.

So great was the demand for ship steel that we had to stop all building construction, all manufacture of so-called "pleasure" automobiles and even prohibit the use of steel stays in women's corsets.

Newly developed artillery methods of "drum-fire" and other mass consumption tactics shot away incredible tonnages of metal and chemicals. Due to the wide use of barbed wire on all fronts any great strategic retreat called for shiploads of fencing material.

There just wasn't enough of anything to meet half of the requirements. The only reason that prices did not go to an absolutely destructive inflation was an outright governmental price control. As it was, our own cost was nearly three times what it would have been in 1913 dollars—39 billion.

Not only is the probable demand a fraction of what we saw 20 odd years ago, but the Allied reserves and sources of supply, other than the United States, are very much greater.

As the department of agriculture has pointed out, surplus carryovers of food and textiles are many times as large as in the World war. Our producing plant is not even extended. The lag to be taken up before we hit the normal economic stride of the 20's is too great to be betting money on any industrial miracles.

Such recovery as we have had was overdue. If reasonable confidence can be maintained there is no good reason why it should not continue. War buying in the airplane and automotive industries should help sustain it healthily. There should be no danger of either a disastrous collapse or a runaway inflation.

All this is to the good. Nobody that I know in business would have it otherwise if he could. Too much business involvement in a war is almost as dangerous in one direction as too much military involvement in another—and we don't want either.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Mayor La Guardia of New York City (I see by the papers) tells a film group that his town has everything Hollywood has as a movie center "and more of it." Everything, he might have added, except the movie industry, or maybe that's beside the point.

Helen Gilbert's plea for a divorce marks the first time to my knowledge that "spring fever" has led to court instead of to the altar—and brings up the question: As a 'cellist Helen was married to her musician husband two and a half years; as a movie actress she stayed married to him only six months more; what's there about this acting business that nurtures interlocking decrees where none grew before?

Edna May Oliver's case, if you can believe reports. Gets up every morning, summer and winter, for a plunge in the surf. I'll patrol the sector, some zero morning, for an eye-witness account.

James Wong Howe, the Chinese cameraman on "Abe Lincoln in Illinois"—and one of the best in town—is talking about a Chinese night club for this town which has clubs of all varieties, including the bankrupt.

Younger generation department. . . . Susanna Foster, 14, Paramount's wonder singer in "The Life of Wonder Herbert" discusses her religious life: "I have my own religion. It isn't like any other religion there is. I can't exactly describe it, but it's—well, sort of Methodist."

And Jean Cagney, sweet child with a big brother named Jimmy, says "People are amazed sometimes because I give my right eye when I'm starting out in pictures." (The tired old lady, admitting this ravages thus, is 20!)

William Dieterle had his "Hunchback" company on location one day and was being bothered by airplanes overhead—government planes. A couple of telephone calls later, the planes considerably moved out of sound range. Just then three tractors and a fleet of grading implements arrived to work on a nearby road, and the assistant director who went to plead for mercy mentioned how nice and obliging the planes were.

"Listen, buddy," the foreman said, "maybe you can order these planes around but now you ain't talking to the U. S. A. You're talking to the W. P. A. and we got work to do right here!" Dieterle and company, it is reported, retreated to the home lot.

Ward Bond, the burly actor you see in most of Director John Ford's pictures, will never live down the artificial eyelashes he and bruises. They claimed the had to wear for some scenes in "Drums Along the Mohawk"—way officers took a revolver and just like a glimmering, in a quantity of liquor from the car, battle scene he put too much pow—according to police.

New York Votes In Pari-Mutuel Betting Machines

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—New York approved overwhelmingly on pari-mutuel betting on horse races, returns from yesterday's election showed today.

At the same time, Tammany Hall, defeated by a Republican-fusion ticket which elected F. H. LaGuardia mayor in 1935 and re-elected him in 1937, scored a comeback with a virtually clean sweep of important offices in the Manhattan judicial election.

Rep. Christopher D. Sullivan, D., N. Y., leader of the Hall, hailed the victory as "a return of confidence" in Tammany.

Democratic organizations in New York City's other boroughs, allies of Tammany, registered similar victories. County Judge William O'Dwyer was elected Kings (Brooklyn) county district attorney with a vote exceeding the total of his Republican and American Labor party opponents.

The pari-mutuel amendment was the only state-wide issue. With its adoption, New York will set up the same system of wagering—and taxation on bets—now in force in every other state which permits gambling on horse races.

War Letters
Coming
Again

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
It seems only yesterday that women were writing frantic letters to their husbands and sons enlisting in the first World war.

Hard to realize that after twenty-two years, we are again confronted with the same frightful apprehension. Mothers await the grim result—who will be tapped, who will be left.

Women are beginning to write war letters to this column, very different letters from those which came more than twenty years ago. No one wants her husband, son, or sweetheart to go to war today. Twenty years ago, women were buoyed up by their imaginations. They thought their loved ones were doing something splendid to save civilization, to save future generations. We called it making the world safe for democracy.

All that sort of exaltation is missing in today's letters. Today's tone is hopeless. They write:

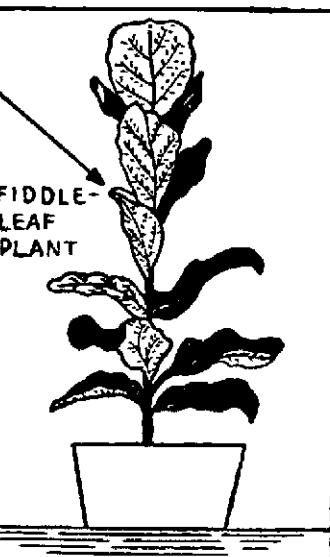

"Why should we have to do this thing all over again when nothing was accomplished last time?" Another letter says: "Why should the boy whom I gave life, lovingly watched over, educated, be sent overseas to stop this Dance of Death?"

And again: "The war to end war, people talked of 22 years ago, was a mockery and a lie. It betrayed brotherhood. And when we asked for what was justly ours, they called us 'Uncle Shylock.'"

This is the tone of letters that come to this column today. Anticipation of something set apart and consecrated to do a great and humane work is absolutely missing. Many have joined the Red Cross and the Red Cross is there doing its splendid work in war or peace. But there is not that scrupulousness to get to the bandage rolling that there was twenty years ago. There's a feeling it's dreary work, rolling bandages to staunch the wounds of boys now in perfect health. We may have to do it yet, but there's no heart for the job.

Women have a harder part to bear in war than the men who fight. There is the anguish of waiting. No leaping of the heart or surge of blood in the forward rush to victory. No momentary respite 'round the campfire, when there's a full in the killing. Only the gnawing apprehension, when you see his beloved handwriting on an envelope, that perhaps at that moment, when he's trying to cheer you with the bright side of things, he may be lying dead or worse than dead—suffering hideously.

Rubber plants also go modern

By DEAN HALLIDAY
There is no reason, in our modern homes with sun porches, large windows and, in many cases, air conditioning, one should not succeed with house plants.

An annually reliable plant for indoor use is shown in today's Garden-Graph. This is called Ficus pandurata, or Fiddle-leaf plant. A member of the rubber plant family, it is a more modern type that has been welcomed by decorators in place of the old-fashioned rubber plant that used to catch dust in so many homes.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 9.

Much energy and initiative, with things moving into creative lines under high tempo, are read from favorable astral influences. It is probable that new matters will engage the attention, despite certain impeding or delaying elements, possibly a depressed mental state or a physical handicap. Employers, superiors and important organizations, diplomatic, political or fraternal bodies, may be sought for active support. It is a time for working toward high goals of accomplishment.

Those whose birthday it is may find their energies and spirit of initiative under high pressure for launching new projects of importance in spite of moments of physical depression or morbid mental slants. Or timid elders may offer opposition. But superiors, employers or those in political, fraternal or other influential places may abet constructive plans. Generally auspicious conditions await aggressive action.

A child born on this day may be energetic, enterprising, forceful and constructive, although it may have moments of discouragement due to physical handicaps or temporary mental morbidity. Its health should be safeguarded.

GALION—So well patronized was the election day dinner sponsored by the Ladies' auxiliary of Good Samaritan hospital board Tuesday that the women had to stop serving at 1 o'clock because of a shortage of food. There were at least 300 served a ham dinner. Mrs. C. F. Uekrich was general chairman of arrangements.

Teach Child To Handle Money

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
Children from the best homes have frequent experiences at handling money which belongs to others of their group. It may be at Sunday school, in a club or at school. Naturally, the child who appears to be the most unselfish, public-spirited and dependable is first to be chosen to collect money from the group concerned.

Beginning in the primary grades at school, the children are asked to bring pennies, nickels, dimes, for the Junior Red Cross. Community Chest, flowers for a sick child, the school paper and all sorts of desirable materials and services for the group. In the junior and senior high schools the amount of money collected by one or more students in the home room totals a good many dollars in a term. So also in a Scout troop, Campfire, Hi-Y, Sunday school class or similar organizations. In addition, many a child is induced to sell tickets and materials for his organization.

As a rule, the child entrusted with this sort of responsibility has very little guidance; his records and funds are seldom checked and audited by an older and more experienced person.

May Be Careless.
What happens? The youngster collecting money from his group or selling tickets for his organization may not keep a careful record of the money received. He may trust to his memory or write the items down on a bit of paper easily lost. He may be allowed to keep the funds about as long as he likes or turn them over to the proper person irregularly.

With considerable money in his hands, he is tempted to spend this money for personal needs and luxuries, meaning, of course, to replace it later—in other words, appropriating public funds for private use; being innocently practiced in embezzlement. When at last the funds are demanded of him and he is found short, his parents properly are called upon to make up the shortage. Then there is embarrassment to all concerned. Worse still is the damage done to the moral character of the child.

Let me entreat public school and Sunday school teachers, leaders of Scouts, clubs and similar groups to guide those youths who are entrusted with collecting and keeping money for the group, so that these fine youngsters won't be tempted to deceive and to practice in dishonesty.

What Parents Can Do.
What might we parents do about this matter? As soon as you discover that your child is entrusted with collecting and keeping funds of others, induce him to keep very accurate ac-

West began this rubber deal with 4-Hearts. When this was passed to William B. Stewart in the South, that canny New York advertising man was able to read that his inexperienced partner in the North almost surely had a good spade holding, so bid 4-Spades. West went to 5-Hearts, North 5-Spades and East doubled. North thereupon nearly knocked Mr. Stewart off his pins by bidding 6-Spades, which East doubled and Mr. Stewart, in order to impress North with his sins, redoubled.

The heart king fell to the Ace, and after three spades the heart 9 was ruffed. The club 10 was finessed to the Q, then East made the fatal mistake of leading back the club 9. West's covering this with the king, which fell to the ace, marked a sure winning finessé of the club 7 against the club 8, leaving the Jack for a discard of the diamond 2, and making the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.

With MARIANNE

THE colors for November are entirely different from those of any other winter season. . . . Coral and turquoise lead the parade followed close behind by the enchanting new jewel tones—amethyst, pearl-gray and mauve pink. . . . These flattering new shades are available in costume ensembles, accessory accents and harmonizing make-up.

Marianne

You've never seen such lush looking purses as the ones of coral and turquoise suede now being shown in some of the downtown stores. . . . Costume jewelry combines these same colors with both gold and silver to form gay necklaces, clips and bracelets. . . . One nail enamel manufacturer has fallen in with these tones too, and has just brought out three new shades called, strangely enough, Scarlet O'Hara, Morning, Noon and Night!

And the new rosy-hued make-up, which has just been introduced to harmonize with these jewel tones, is really lovely. . . . One cosmetologist calls her pastel-tinted make-up "Opalescent," while another has named hers "It's You". . . . Both can be purchased in lipstick, rouge and eyeshadow—and the former comes in powder and mascara too.

CHRISTMAS comes but once a year—and you can't get away from the fact that it's almost here—especially when you glance through the stores. . . . There are perfume and soap novelties galore, and in fact, all kinds of niceties that you might like for yourself or want to give to friends. . . . One manufacturer of toiletries, which have very regal sounding names, has indeed dressed up all of his popular items for Christmas. . . . A white plush snowball, decorated with a jeweled crown when opened reveals three crystal crowns of Ave Maria, Duchess of York and Katherine The Great perfumes. . . . A red satin sachet bell is decorated with a colorful sprig of holly and scented with Duchess of York—a lilac and lily-of-the-valley fragrance. . . . A gold and white crown casket has also been decorated with holly for the Christmas season, and it too is filled with the same crystal crowns as the snowball. . . . A gleaming golden bell (that really rings) contains these same perfume crowns, while a kerchief cologne set ties up three bottles of cologne in a red chiffon hankie—and they come in a shiny red box tied with green ribbon.

You can really enhance your own or your friend's dressing table this Christmas because of the especially pretty and decorative things the local shops are showing now. . . . Just about the loveliest perfume or cologne bottles I've ever seen are those of pale pink, blue, green or white glass topped with gay little sprays of pastel tinted glass flowers. . . . Three-piece hobnail dresser sets are smart for the Early Colonial room. . . . While jeweled gold filagree perfume bottles are attractive for the more formal room. . . . And a pretty little crystal lamp would be an attraction in either one.

IF YOU'VE been searching these many months for a fresh and fragrant perfume that doesn't really smell like a perfume at all, "New Mown Hay" will be just what you're looking for. . . . This new scent can be had in cologne, bath powder, bath oil, bath salts and sachet. . . . These come in regular packages and in some special ones that are just about the cutest you've seen in a while. . . . A clever bottle of cologne is all dressed up like a scarecrow with a ragged red satin coat, tattered burlap hat and straw arms! And the sachet is really done up proud—a little basket filled with "new mown hay" has the same fragrance, is decorated with a sprig of holly and is just the thing to hang in your closet or put in with your hankies.

DOES the man in your family always cause you no little worry at Christmas time? It is hard to find just the gift to please him, isn't it? Well then, perhaps one of the smart new robes will be an ideal solution. . . . There are flannel robes in plain colors, checks and stripes. . . . Gabardines (warm in winter, but rather cool in summer) in plain tones and stripes. . . . Silk and neckwear silks in stripes, jacquard patterned crepes and moire designs. . . . Or, if he finds the skirt of a robe too cumbersome, undoubtedly he'd be better pleased with one of the new cocktail coats (just like a robe only short) in all shades of silk, wool or flannel. . . . Then there are the old familiar house coats or smoking jackets—and for something really new, flannel lounge suits, which are, just like the popular summer slack suits.

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

'SPICES, HERBS' TOPIC FOR AUDUBON PAPER

Mrs. Carl Torrence Principal Speaker at Women's Club; Plans for Morning Meeting and Christmas Program Made.

SELECTING "Spices and Herbs" as a topic for her paper Mrs. Carl Torrence told of the old-fashioned condiments, how they were used as seasonings and medicines, how they have now become popular and are studied and used.

She read some old recipes, and told how herbs were used in prescriptions. In addition Mrs. Torrence explained the origin and history of spices, and told how empires had been built as a result of the discovery or control of spices. Pepper was the most sought over, commanded the highest prices, and practically reigned the world—for it was pepper that Columbus sought when he discovered America.

There were 20 members of the Audubon club present for the meeting at which Mrs. Torrence spoke, and for which Miss Josephine Doolittle was hostess. Mrs. R. N. Campbell presented a paper entitled "The Life and Habits of the Robin," after which Mrs. H. C. McCutchan, conservation chairman, reported on the "United States Biological Survey for the Protection of Wild Fowls in the South." Mrs. McCutchan told that fowls are being bootlegged to eastern hotels, and the survey is an attempt to stop this.

Reports on the dental clinic were given by Mrs. Olive Frey and Mrs. Roy I. Curry. Mrs. Francis Barrett was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be a luncheon and Christmas program at 10:30 a. m. Dec. 5 at the home of Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Edgewood road.

Two Guests Attend Session Of Mothers

Mrs. Donald Hensley of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Rupert Cox were guests at a meeting of the Chi Sigma Mothers' club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Strater, 422 Lexington avenue. The affair was a dessert-bridge, and the dessert course was served at small tables centered with bowls of pompons.

Bridge was in play at three tables with high score prize going to Mrs. C. C. Hout. Mrs. Anastasia Nail will have the meeting of Dec. 5 at her home, 1025 Park avenue west.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE THEM

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING
Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and cleanses the tender skin so carefully. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.
Many doctors recommend an oily ointment because it holds the medication in contact with the irritated skin surface, giving prolonged action. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For nearly 45 years it has been—and still is—successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.
Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

"Good Shoes Since 1912"

IN THE Ruhl Book

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MADISON HIGH school officials regret the fact that they have so few games with the lure of a Madison-Bellville meeting. . . . Their meeting last Friday crossed something like $1,000, and that's not exactly "chicken feed," according to Coach Al Fendrick. . . . That's the biggest game ever attracted by a Madison game. . . . Sandusky sports writers had their funny bones tickled by the Foster-St. Wendlin substitutions during the game with Sandusky St. Mary's the other day. . . . One chuckled, "When St. Wendlin is on the defense it uses Shields (Jim) and when it is on the offense it uses a Hammer (Clarence). . . . When Ohio State and Chicago meet Saturday, it will mark the 14th renewal of a series which originated in 1920 during the "Stagg Era" on the Midway. . . . The Bucks have won nine games and the Maroons two. . . . Watch for Johnny Hallabrin and other Ohio State sophomores to see a lot of action. . . .

'College Called Marshall' Tough.

WAKE FOREST, one of the South's more successful elevens, scheduled Marshall this year. . . . In the pre-season dope, the Wake Forest press agent mentioned the fact that his university had scheduled "a college called Marshall." . . . Last Saturday, Wake Forest handed Marshall, located in Huntington, W. Va., its first defeat of the season, 14 to 13. . . . A fluke conversion attempt that hit the cross bar and dropped the wrong way prevented a tie. . . . Tom Harmon, Michigan star, despite his disappointing showing against Illinois, still leads in ground gained with 311 yards in 43 tries in the Big Ten, an average of seven yards plus. . . . In his broadcast of the Canzoneri-Davis fight, Sam Taub yelled: "Remember, Canzoneri has the experience even if he is a veteran." . . . Four outstanding Michigan Frosh gridgers shortly will leave Ann Arbor to see if it's true what they say about Dixie. . . .

Bender's Eleven Wins Close One.

TOMMY BENDER's Logan club nosed out Middleport, 21 to 20, in a storybook finish between two unbeaten teams last week-end. . . . With 1,000 Logan fans in a mass migration to Middleport by special train, Bob McBride was first the Logan "goat" when his fumbles led to two Middleport touchdowns. . . . Then Bob sparked a desperate rally that scored 14 points in the final eight minutes. . . . He climaxed his redemption when he kicked the winning point. . . . Hopes for next season's cross country team at Mansfield high school are encouraging, to say the least. . . . Only one runner, Charley Burton, will be lost by graduation. . . . Bob Yarnon, who led Harry Mehock's harriers to the district crown and seventh place in the state meet, is only a sophomore.

Blame Downfall On Soft Schedule.

NOW they're blaming Michigan's downfall on its soft October schedule. . . . Ossie Soles's Syracuse contract has a year or so to run, but the Wolves are holering, "pay off." . . . Reason Rabbit Maranville got the gate at Albany was because the Pirates wouldn't consent to a working agreement with Albany unless they named the manager. . . . Football coaches say Bob Zuppke is the best pointer for a single game in the country. . . . And the Zuppke and De Corveant knockers are stepping all over each other's toes in the football doghouse.

RETURN TO OLD SITE.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' baseball team took a look into the future today and decided to return to New Orleans for spring training. The decision stands unless "something entirely unforeseen comes up," said Vice President C. C. Slapnicka.

KENYON THANKFUL.

GAMBIER—INS—Held scoreless by every opponent, Kenyon college's football team was thankful today that the season would end Saturday with a game against Ashland. It has been one of the most disastrous seasons in Kenyon history.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Steve "Gus" Seibert, 146, New York, outpointed Harry Ginsberg, 152, Brooklyn (8).

TONY BRUNO WINS.

HOUSTON, Tex.—Tony Bruno, 140, Milwaukee, outpointed Billy Prior, 159, Boise, Idaho, (10).

OUTPOINTS TURLEY THOMPSON.

LOS ANGELES—Bobby Seaman, 156, Los Angeles, outpointed Turkey Thompson, 157, Los Angeles, (10).

Talented Toes Keep Notre Dame Undefeated

Largely responsible for the narrow margins by which Notre Dame has won its first three games this season is the accurate place kicking of these three backs shown in practice at South Bend. The Irish won two games by the margin of a field goal and their last by the point after touchdown. The kickers are (left to right) Lou Zontini, Harry Stevenson and Bill Kelleher. Holding the balls are (left to right) Joe Thesing, Steve Sikko and Bob Saggau.

'Buckeye Bowl' Planned to Name High School Gridiron Champion

Massillon Among Schools Sought for Grid Contest In Ohio State Stadium.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A "Buckeye Bowl" game to settle to some extent the Ohio high school football championship—with Ohio State's huge stadium as the setting—was in the making today.

The post-season clash between two of the Titans was still in the "talking" stage, but early conversation centered around a scrap between Massillon, Portsmouth, Toledo Waite, Hamilton, New Philadelphia or Columbus West.

High School Commissioner H. R. Townsend said he would grant permission for such a contest, on or before Dec. 2, and Ohio State officials said they would ask permission of the Buckeye athletic board for use of the stadium. Gate receipts would be split between the two contestants on a 50-50 basis.

Portsmouth, unbeaten in its last 23 games, but tied a couple of weeks ago on a rain-drenched field by Middletown, was definitely interested in such a game. Massillon, winner of 21 in a row, said it was not interested until after the Nov. 18 clash with Canton McKinley. Sentiment favored a title scrap between the Tigers and the Trojans, each winner of 10 straight last season and unbeaten this year, but Massillon authorities said their team never had played a post-season contest.

In 1935 Massillon beat Portsmouth 46 to 0, and repeated by 70 to 0 in 1936. Both games, however, were played before Paul Jenkins came to Portsmouth and started constructing almost unbeatable squads.

Should Massillon veto the post-season game idea, Portsmouth is willing to meet any other team in the state, preferably the strong Toledo Waite squad which has roared through eight straight wins, piling up 254 points to 32 for the foe. Portsmouth has scored 163 to 18 for the opposition in six victories and a scoreless tie, while Massillon is far out front in scoring with 402 to 19 for the enemy.

Last year seven teams finished their campaigns with 10 straight wins. This year 10 of them have eight in a row, and six others have topped seven straight, tossing the title situation into a turmoil.

Final selection of the teams to meet in the post-season classic depends upon the result of the remaining contests, the class of opposition met by the leaders, and the action of the various athletic boards in accepting invitations to play.

Columbus newspapermen who have taken the lead in attempting to arrange such a game believe it would attract close to 25,000 fans to the Ohio stadium. Preliminary plans are that no reserved seats be sold, but that blue tickets be for one side of the field, and red for the other, so that each team's fans could sit together.

SHILOH ENDS SEASON WITH 19 TO 14 VICTORY

NEW YORK—(AP)—Al Patnik and Earl Clark, Ohio State's diving "Twins," were rewarded for fine 1939 performances today with places on the annual All-America swimming squad selected by the national amateur athletic union. Patnik, a junior, was named for springboard diving and Clark, a sophomore, for high fancy diving. They were the only two Big Ten swimmers chosen.

DOGS' WARDENS

DENVER—(AP)—Colorado game wardens are using the hunter's best friend, the bird dog, to convict him of illegally shooting quail and pheasants. Chief Warden John Hart explained dogs can sniff out birds hidden in an automobile or horse pack that a warden might miss.

CRAFT LOSES TONSILS

WATERLOO, Ia.—(P)—Harry Craft, outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, who suffered from throat trouble during the past season, underwent a tonsilectomy yesterday.

STILL LIKES BIG TEN

NEW YORK—(CP)—Benny Friedman, the old Michigan forward passer and now coach of City college of New York, still thinks the Western conference is the toughest collection of football teams. Friedman thinks, team for team, the Big Ten is better than the Southeastern or any other conference.

STREAKS IN SHELBY

The Shelby Conservation Association will meet in Shelby at the City Hall Wednesday at 7:00 p. m. George Emmett, a speaker from the Division of Conservation will speak.

BIG NINE-AND-A-HALF

CHICAGO—(CP)—Since Chicago's miserable showing against Harvard and Michigan the wits along the Midway are referring to the Western conference as the "Big Nine-and-a-Half."

CHICAGO—(UP)—Owner Phil K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs said today that Gabby Hartnett would manage the Chicago Cubs in 1940—"as far as I know now."

"It looks like Hartnett's going to work into the picture all right," Wrigley said. "He's promised he will be available for next season and I see no reason for making any change. That's as definite as I can make it."

Tygers Promised Trouble In Tussle With McKinley

Scout Vern Hoffman Considers Bulldogs Much Improved Since Sandusky Defeat.

NEXT SATURDAY will be Armistice day, but there will be no let-down on the football fronts.

One of the more important scholastic battles of the year will be fought at Stadium field this week-end when the Tygers, fresh from a 40 to 0 rout of Ashland, renew hostilities with Canton McKinley.

Mansfield and Canton boast similar records, which were compiled against opponents of practically the same caliber, and there is no reason to suspect that the game will develop into anything but a stiff battle.

The Tygers and Bulldogs have met one common foe, Sandusky. Coach Paul Snyder's men trimmed Sandusky, 9 to 0, and the Blue Streaks won over Canton, 13 to 0.

On the comparison of the Sandusky scores, Mansfield should obtain revenge for the 32 to 0 whipping absorbed in Canton last Fall. But no football game has ever been won that easy.

If Mansfield wins, it will have to prove it on the football field, and that will have to be done Saturday.

There is every indication that the Tygers will meet a stronger McKinley club than Sandusky and Warren did earlier this season. The Bulldogs have shown considerable improvement.

Vern Hoffman, assistant Mansfield high coach, saw the Bulldogs play Sandusky and witnessed the team in action again last Saturday when it walloped Steubenville, 20 to 0.

"Canton looked a lot stronger against Steubenville than against Sandusky," Hoffman declared.

Preparing the Tygers on the belief that the Bulldogs will be tougher than Sandusky, Snyder has a pessimistic outlook on the game.

"If the Tygers play the kind of football that I believe they are capable of playing, they might win," Snyder said. "But a letdown will prove disastrous, I'm sure."

The Tygers came out of the Ashland game in good shape, and there were no absences as Mansfield dug in for its heaviest drills of the fading season this week.

SUGGESTS SHAUGHNESSY PLAYOFF FOR MAJORS

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Phils, came up today with a counterproposal to Larry MacPhail's plan to supplant the world series with post-season games between American and National league baseball clubs according to their final standings.

It was: Why not adopt the Shaughnessy play-off system, with the winners of the final play-off meeting in a world series?

Fans Warned To Buy Early

Largest Crowd of Season Seen for Canton Game.

Tyger football fans desiring choice reservations for the annual Mansfield-Canton game at Stadium field Saturday were warned today to secure their tickets early.

Due to the big demand for tickets in Canton, George C. Mann, treasurer of the Mansfield high athletic association, urged all fans to purchase their ducats immediately before the supply is exhausted.

It is quite likely that the game will draw the largest crowd of the season, Sherman said.

Adult tickets are 75 cents, student, 25 cents, and school children, 15 cents. High school and grade school students who do not purchase tickets before game will be forced to pay 75 cents at Stadium field.

Tickets are on sale at the Tawse Pharmacy, Brown's drug store, Central drug store and Smokehouse. Grade school tickets may be obtained at Brown's and Central drug stores.

RUSSIA-JAPAN PACT SEEN AS POSSIBILITY YET

Communist Aid to Army in China, Red Ideology Seen as Big Obstacles.

TOKYO (AP)—The German-Japanese rapprochement late this summer which the Japanese considered a base betrayal by their erstwhile anti-Communist ally has given rise to suggestions here for concluding a Japanese-Soviet anti-aggression pact.

While it is asserted that such an agreement would enable Japan to push her China war with greater intensity, Japanese desire for Communism ideology and distrust of the Moscow government make such a pact an unlikely possibility. Nevertheless, reports of a possible agreement persist.

A non-aggression pact was proposed once before—in 1931—by the Russians. At that time Japan turned it down flatly, asserting that the Kellogg-Briand pact made an anti-aggression agreement unnecessary, that even if signed it would be ineffective and that Japan could never agree to such a proposal until all pending issues between the two nations were settled.

Unsettled Problems
The matter was broached, however, from time to time in the Diet but in the 1935 session Koki Hirota, then Foreign Minister, put his foot down firmly. The idea was unthinkable, Hirota declared, until pending issues were settled, such as the sale of the North Manchuria Railway (formerly the Chinese Eastern Railway), delimitation of the Russian-Manchukuo border, Japanese fishing rights in Russian waters and questions concerning Saghalien, the northern island owned half and half by Japan and Russia.

The North Manchuria Railway has since been sold by the Russians and the Nomophan truce of this summer will, it is hoped, lead to delimiting the border. The other matters, however, still remain unsettled.

Some quarters argue, however, that Russia, by freeing herself from the possibility of German attacks in the west, can turn her attention to the east if she wishes.

She is in a far stronger position today than in 1931 to make room for Japan, they say, and therefore this country should conclude an agreement as quickly as possible to forestall any such eventuality.

Opponents of the pact plan, on the other hand, point to continued Russian assistance to Chiang Kai-shek and the Sovietization of China's distant provinces as evidence that Russia will never be satisfied until Red influence is paramount in East Asia. Consequently, they argue, any anti-aggression agreement will be meaningless for Russia will not cease her attempts to undermine Japan in this part of the world.

AMERICA'S TASTES must be getting simpler. In 1928 the battle cry was "A chicken in every pot." Now, it's just plain "Ham and eggs."

When you meet a man who says he hates autumn you know he really means he dislikes wheat-cakes, country sausage, apple cider and pumpkin pie.

Mussolini shakes up his cabinet, but we didn't notice that he fired himself from any of those jobs he holds.

And the man at the next desk says it won't be such a bad war, after all, if pretzels replace hard-tack.

History, according to an editorial on the war, is simply repeating itself. Don't tell us civilization has been caught in a revolving door.

Morris, 32-Year-Old Attorney, Named Mayor of Shelby

BEATS PASTOR IN OFFICE FOR THREE TERMS

Scores 607-Vote Victory Over Young; Long New Law Director; Monn Succeeds Fix.

SHELBY—William R. Morris, 32-year-old Shelby attorney, polled a majority of 607 votes over D. Bruce Young yesterday to win the mayor's chair from Young, Shelby pastor, who served as mayor for three terms.

Complete but unofficial returns from all Shelby precincts gave Morris 1,962 votes against 1,355 for Young. Shelby votes on a non-partisan ballot.

Morris is a comparative newcomer in Shelby politics. His first political venture was for election as director of law two years ago. He was defeated then.

The election also returned Attorney Frank C. Long to office. A former law director, Long was elected over Theodore Lutz, incumbent completing his first term, by a vote of 1,777 to 1,533, for the law director post.

Monn Replaces Fix. Chester P. Monn will be Shelby's new finance director. He will succeed Bert Fix who served as finance director for 28 years, and who declined to run this year. Monn defeated Gail Haun, public relief clerk, by a vote of 1,795 to 1,516.

Another highlight of Shelby's election was the approval of a $43,000 bond issue for the construction of a Big Four railroad subway here. A total of 2,044 votes were cast in favor of the bond issue and 1,061 were cast against it.

In the race for city council posts, Charles Dye defeated Arthur Spayde, 2,013 to 1,180, for councilman-at-large.

Ward councilmen elected, their opponents and the votes each polled are:

First ward: Kenneth Rothlisberger, 1,697; Felix Ludin, 1,325; second ward: Ross Sipes, 2,230; Chester Bell, 930; third ward: John Chew, 1,645; Noel Smith, 1,483; fourth ward: Jacob Swanger, 1,652; David Kinsell, 1,551.

ASKS $5,000 IN ASHLAND SUIT

Youth, Injured in Mishap En Route to Lake, Claims He Was Permanently Hurt.

ASHLAND—Last June 5 a party of Ashland high school seniors made a trip to Chippewa lake as part of the senior class activities—the aftermath was a $5,000 suit filed by one of them against the driver of the car.

In a suit filed in common pleas court, Thomas Mitchell, a minor, asks the sum as damages for injuries said to have been sustained when the driver of the car, August Baxter, also a minor, crashed into the rear of another car.

Mitchell, in his petition charges Baxter with speeding and with negligence, and claims that when Baxter's car crashed in to the other car, he was thrown against the dashboard, sustaining a severe head cut.

Mitchell says in his petition that as a result of the injuries, he suffered a brain injury, and that he has recurrent headaches and that his physical condition has been weakened because of the injuries.

The accident occurred near the Wayne and Medina county lines, north of Ashland county.

LEAD IN LUCAS 'WRITE-IN' VOTE

Fulton, Culler Nearly Certain of Election to Village's School Board.

LUCAS—On the face of returns from the three Monroe township precincts early Wednesday it appeared that Frank Fulton and Emory Culler had been elected members of the Lucas Village Board of Education, providing the feature of the local election.

Fulton, retired Lucas hardware dealer, led the vote of the three precincts with 265. Culler, incumbent clerk of the board, trailed with 257.

Robert Mowers, only candidate whose name appeared on the printed ballot, received 179.

Reports from four rural precincts outside of Monroe township, where only a scattered few voters reside in the Lucas school district, were not expected to change the election results.

Friends of Fulton and Culler conducted a strenuous last hour "write in" campaign for the two winners.

Running without opposition, except as voters wrote in scattered names, L. M. Smith was re-elected mayor of Lucas and Mrs. Emma Chamberlin was re-elected treasurer of the village. Mrs. Carrie Zediker was named clerk.

Members of the village council elected Tuesday are M. E. Nichols, Fred Culler, Sam Chamberlin, Robert Campbell, Bert Mowers and L. C. Smith, all running without opposition.

In the Monroe township election John Culler, well known farmer, was reelected trustee without opposition.

L. V. Snider was reelected township clerk and Lloyd Arehart was returned as constable, both without opposition.

In the vote on initiative and referendum matters Lucas and Monroe township citizens voted an emphatic "no" all the way through.

In the vote for Richland county board of education the three Monroe precincts gave Richie 104, Hunter 188, Rinehart 186, and Bloom 86.

Campbell also said he would subpoena H. J. Kirwin, treasurer of the state civil service referendum committee. Kirwin made the charges against White.

COUNCIL MEETS

Pay Hike for Galion Light Plant Workers Discussed.

GALION—Second reading of the ordinance to raise the wage and salaries of several electric light plant employees was given at a short meeting of city council Tuesday night. This was the first session held by council in the new building.

At a previous meeting there had been a complaint that the Erie Railroad crossings at South and Harding Way East intersections were without protection after 8 p. m. The complaint was carried to the railroad superintendent and his reply was read to council last night. This stated that the watchman at these crossings had been on duty before 4 p. m. in order to protect the crossing when an early morning train passes through the city. The watchmen were dismissed from duty at 9 p. m., but the superintendent suggested that the hours of these watchmen might be changed so that they would go to work later in order to be at the crossing later at night.

MT. GILEAD WANTS DISPOSAL PLANT

MT. GILEAD—Spurred by a $25,000 lawsuit filed against the village last week for alleged damages caused by the sewage in Whetstone creek near here, the Mt. Gilead village council today considered ways of financing installation of a new disposal plant.

Council indicated that it would declare the disposal plant a public utility and issue revenue bonds. A surtax would be placed on each taxpayer.

LOCKE WINS IN FIRST VENTURE INTO POLITICS

Chosen Mayor by Majority of 1,500 Despite Sweep by Dems in Other Races.

Second to report was precinct C of the Sixth ward. Locke captured it, 139 to 120. Locke lost only the Fourth and Fifth wards, the Fourth by 70 votes, 657 to 587, and the Fifth by 172 votes, 769 to 597.

At the half-way mark, 25 of the city's 50 precincts, gave Locke a 600-vote majority which increased as the tabulation progressed. As Locke's lead increased steadily, Mayor Hunter conceded his defeat at 11:30 p. m.

Democrats were re-elected to the offices of treasurer, auditor, and city solicitor by substantial margins, while Howard G. Miller, a Democrat, defeated W. C. Mansfield, Republican, for president of council by a vote of 6,502 to 5,502.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley was re-elected for his eighth consecutive term, defeating Herbert L. Rinehart, Republican, by an unofficial 1,394 majority. The vote was 6,920 to 5,526. Kelley has been auditor for 16 years, serving six two-year terms and one four-year term.

The auditor and the municipal judge are the only city officials who serve four-year terms. Others are for two years.

In defeating his Republican opponent, City Solicitor Marion D. Ward led the Democratic ticket with 7,210 votes. His margin over Atty. Lydon Beam, Republican, who polled 4,826, was 2,384 votes.

Treasurer Race Close.

The closest race outside the council contests was waged by the candidates for treasurer, with Glenn A. Davidson, Democratic incumbent, defeating Will G. Herold, Republican, by 408 votes. The vote was Davidson, 6,236, and Herold, 5,828.

Five of the six ward councilmen—three Republicans and two Democrats—were re-elected. Two newcomers waged a close battle in the Fourth ward, however, with Jacob J. Kutschall, a Democrat, winning over Harry E. Ross, Republican.

Returned to council posts by safe majorities were Russell Porch in the First ward, George Kyle in the Third ward, Fred Miller in the Fifth ward, and Arthur L. Croak in the Sixth ward. Porch and Kyle are Republicans, and Miller and Croak are Democrats. Charles N. Shultz, Republican, was re-elected without opposition in the Second ward.

Three Democrats already holding the council-at-large posts were elected over their Republican opponents. The winners were George Berg, Harry M. Emmons, and Philip Smith. They won over James R. Anderson, P. W. Backenstos, and James W. Peyton.

LOCKE HUNTING ELUSIVE BUNNY

Mayor-Elect 'Celebrates' His Victory by Roaming Fields of Wyandot County.

Mansfield's mayor-elect is one of the city's most enthusiastic sportsmen and hasn't missed an opening-day in the fields for years.

Three weeks ago Locke, who has never been in politics and who knows no more about political games and political machines than one of the rabbit's he's bagging today, and whose opponent was a political veteran, wrote the figures "1,500" down on a slip of paper and tucked it away in his pocket.

"That will be my majority on Nov. 7," he told workers at Republican headquarters. And early this morning with a majority over Claude M. Hunter of 1,436, he was wondering how he had earned 64 votes out of a total of 12,634 cast.

Which exemplifies one of the biggest factors in Locke's successful campaign. "He just made a good guess on those figures," some one said. But that's not true. There seldom has been a mayoralty candidate in Mansfield who has done as much personal contact work as Locke, nor who has so methodically compiled figures in every precinct in the city. In many precincts every single registered Republican voted yesterday.

Locke has a capacity for organization that amounts to a passion. This statement is not to belittle the work done by the Republican committees and Locke's campaign manager, Stuart Cramer.

For two years he headed and mapped out the Red Cross Roll Call, and his capacity for details in organization of city and county was something to see.

And he'll probably tackle the city's traffic problem—one of his campaign promises—the same way.

"It isn't one man's problem to work out. It's a community problem, and the only way it can be solved is to organize and get the community back of working it out. And that's going to be one of my first jobs."

It is no secret that Locke wasn't very enthusiastic about becoming a candidate for mayor, but once he was committed, he started working in a manner typical of him.

"Didn't put much money in the campaign," he said, "but certainly a lot of time."

Locke has lived in Mansfield for 11 years. He's a native of Grove City, Pa.—he was born there on the Fourth of July 50 years ago—and he's been in the insurance business for a number of years. He and Mrs. Locke have four children: Prudence (Mrs. Robert Alexander), Gerry Locke who is in her father's office, Joan, who is in business college and young Bill who is a junior at Ohio State.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1939.

One-Term Policy Retained

ONE TERM for mayor seems to be the attitude of Mansfield voters toward that particular office, although the restriction does not appear to extend to other municipal offices—such, for instance, as auditor, in which position Paul Kelley is retained term after term.

Nor does party politics seem to play any part in the matter, a one-term Republican having been succeeded by a Democrat who is also being retired after a single term.

Now it is William J. Locke, Republican, who will take the reins of city government for a two-year term, and whether history will again repeat or custom revert to an earlier Mansfield practice of according two—or even three terms—to a mayor, will depend to large extent on events of the next two years.

Disadvantages to a city resulting from short-term administration of the city's business are apparent in the resultant inability to formulate and carry through any consistently maintained program of municipal progress and it will probably be eventually realized that the interests of Mansfield taxpayers and all citizens will be better served by adoption of a city manager form of government, which has already been much discussed but in which action seems unlikely for another several years.

As nearly as can now be judged, Mayor-elect Locke will make a conscientious effort to perform the duties of that responsible position in a fair, honest and capable way, and in accordance with policies outlined during progress of the campaign. Toward this accomplishment he is assured the well wishes of those whom he has been chosen to serve as chief executive.

Defeat of the Bigelow Proposals

THE OVERWHELMING defeat which Ohio voters administered yesterday to the Bigelow pension plan not only evidences the sound thinking of a large majority of the citizens of this state, but should mark an end, once and for all, of the nuisance of having such visionary proposals presented intermittently to the electorate.

Defeat of the second Bigelow proposal—intended to reduce the requirements for signatures to initiate a constitutional amendment or statute—is of almost equal importance.

The pension amendment, as most people realized, would have been impossible of fulfillment even if it had been adopted and an attempt to carry through its provisions would have worked untold hardship on every wage earner, and eventually brought bankruptcy to the state—so that even temporary beneficiaries would have suffered with the rest.

Reduction of the number of signatures required to place a proposed amendment or statute on the ballot would have opened the way for many more crackpot schemes of visionary minority groups to be brought to vote, regardless of the impossibility of their adoption.

One of the things made clear by Herbert Bigelow's success in getting his proposed amendments on the ballot at yesterday's election is that entirely too many people sign petitions without understanding them. The large number of signatures thrown out when these petitions were checked indicates the extent of ignorance and illiteracy involved in support of these proposals, and it need scarcely be suggested that those who are to be the recipients of pensions cannot be permitted to be the determining factor in originating and financing a practicable pension plan.

Within the past quarter of a century Ohio has been among the states that have made marked progress in sound pension legislation, intended to furnish essentials of comfortable living to needy old persons no longer able to provide for themselves. More recently the federal government has been co-operating with states in making these pensions more adequate. Public sentiment has kept pace with this humanitarian progress and the many millions of dollars required each year to finance these expenditures have been provided through taxes assessed upon the more fortunate part of the citizenship, who by their labor, have been able to acquire a surplus beyond their own needs.

There is reason to believe that majority sentiment in the state will continue to favor further improvements in Ohio's pension system, based on ability to increase expenditures for this purpose without sacrificing other essential departments of state government or placing an unbearable burden on taxpayers.

But these advance steps in pensioning—let it now be understood—must be gradually developed on the basis of actuarial soundness and financing practicability, and not dependent on the fantastic imaginings of sentimental visionaries or self-seeking promoters.

It may be a good thing, after all, that the Bigelow proposals were accorded a place on the ballot at yesterday's election. The result will inform people all over the United States that Ohio voters are not to be misled by glowing promises that cannot be fulfilled, and voters in some other states may be thus spared the trouble of defeating similar schemes which might otherwise be foisted upon them.

School Levy Again Approved

APPROVAL of continuance of the 3-mill tax levy for maintenance of Mansfield public schools at their present standards is in accord with previously expressed desire of voters to meet all essential costs in giving the children of this city the best possible educational facilities.

This special 3-mill levy for school purposes has been in effect for the past fifteen years, with requirement for renewal at five-year intervals, and the approximate $170,000 a year which has been thus made available for public school purposes has meant much in establishing and maintaining high standards in the Mansfield school system.

With two new junior high schools nearing completion and assurance of sufficient operating funds, Mansfield's willingness to make a substantial investment in its "citizens of tomorrow" is quite evident.

Now that the election is over, it might be well to recall the favorite expression of the late Peter Bissman, "It's time to go to work and go to work."

"This country is a big country when you start to cross," remarks Mrs. Roosevelt in her "My Day"—and who should know better.

Courts agree that pedestrians have the right of way—but that doesn't relieve the pain, or reduce the sorrow of survivors.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Small, intimate theaters produce the best drama. You can't have good theaters in halls that look like Grand Central terminal. Some of the cinema houses in New York are ornate pleasure domes, as large as all outdoors. These are all right for films; drama would be lost and out of place in them.

But the type of theater I have in mind is best exemplified by the Music Box, in 45th street. Unless I am mistaken, it has never had a failure. It is quite small. It is compact. The people in the front row and the people in the back row are neighbors. The people who buy standing room can still see the actors without the use of binoculars.

In these smaller theaters you never see spectacles in which 44 camels drift across several acres of sand. But, then, that isn't drama. Drama—good theater—is make-believe in which you can believe.

FROM 8:45 till 10 after 11 is the hour. It is the hour for the Helen Hayes, and the Katharine Cornells, and the Gertrude Lawrence. The plays they appear in are produced in theaters with perhaps 600 seats on the first floor—seldom more. Music Hall has four thousand seats. To sit in the rear of Music Hall and see Tallulah Bankhead you would have to use television. And amplifiers.

I like the Music Box, because most of George S. Kaufman's plays are produced there. Irving Berlin, I think, and Sam Harris, own a part of it. It has housed more splendid nonsense, more good drama than probably is found on the shelves of your library.

When the six hundred people who sit downstairs come into the lobby between acts, you have to be philosophical when people tread on your toes, and thrust their elbows in your ribs. There isn't much room. Yet there always seems room enough for eight or ten people who sell cigarettes and chewing gum, and gardenias, and pencils. . . . These are the theatrical alms seekers—landmarks in Manhattan's after dark life, who shouldn't be there. No one resents the efforts of people trying to make a living. No one objects to men and women getting out after dark trying to balance their economic scale by turning an honest penny. You have to admire people who will work any and all hours to make ends meet.

But there is a time and place for everything. The city has asked you not to encourage those people by purchasing things from them. The city assures one and all that these people are well-cared for. . . . that there is relief, and always food, and shelter, for those in need. . . .

I WOULDN'T know. If a man is at 11 o'clock at night selling pencils, he must have a reason for being out. He doesn't do those things because he is an eccentric. But there isn't enough room in the theater foyers even for the people who buy tickets, and also less for this additional coterie of salesmen. You don't want to buy things between the acts of a play—you want to talk with a friend about the act you have just seen. You want to laugh over it, or criticize it.

Perhaps this is being pretty small. It isn't intended in that manner. But here is a problem that is a very genuine problem on Broadway between the first and the last curtain calls. I noticed it tonight, and I thought I'd make a note of it.

Listen, World!

Are the Youngsters Responsible For the Oldsters?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY threw them to the crocodiles or feed 'em to the ants. That, in crude, concise terms, is how Youngsters disposed of Oldsters when the world was young. But if you think the fashion's vanished, you'd better guess again.

For they're just as strong for "rubbing 'em out" in 1939 A. D. as they were in 1393 B. C.

You don't believe it? Then listen to a few vital statistics as recorded by Mrs. Thomas H. Richards and this writer.

Mrs. Richards is the newly elected president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs. She is also a lady of plentiful personal power. As was evidenced when she arose and told the Sisterhood How Come and Where To.

According to Mrs. Richards, the Youthful Trend—in California and elsewhere—isn't anything to boast of. Large portions of the Younger Generation are children from Broken Homes. Children who have no particular reason for cherishing or respecting the elders who had put an unhappy nick in their youth. So what? So they naturally regard said parents as they would any other Necessary Nuisance. As something the State or Federal Government should care for, when they can no longer care for themselves.

"What kind of children are you going to turn out?" asked Mrs. Richards. "Are they the kind who say, 'Relief is the place for father and mother?' Our relief rolls are growing. I would not deprive one needy person of relief—but so many young people are willing to turn their parents over to the taxpayers. . . . Something is the matter. We have to find out what it is."

Does that shock you? It did us truly. As you doubtless know from our humpious boasts, we conduct a Youth department which is our joy and delight. Not only is this department scarce in quantity but it is also tops in the quality of its fan mail. Recently, just for shucks, we asked the kids whether YOUNG AMERICA SHOULD TAKE CARE OF OLD AMERICA OR LET UNCLE SAM DO IT. Remembering our own youth—and a certain silver-haired little tyrant with laughing blue eyes—we had no doubt as to the answer. It was a 100 to 1 shot that The Kids would wreck our profile for even suggesting that Mom'n Dad should go anywhere but Home!

But did they? They did not! We wrote to state that our profile is still extant. Not only did Young America fail to resent our query—but it wondered why the heck we made it anyway. Out of 7,583 answers, 6,935 were all for handing Dad and Mom over to Uncle Sam—and the quicker the better!

These 6,935 young people made no apologies for their stand, offered no excuses. Obviously, they expected a 100 per cent endorsement. Had they asked to be born? They had not. Were they responsible for the struggles and sacrifices made by their parents in their training and education? They were not.

Said parents would have been cracked into the housewife if they hadn't come across. So what did they owe Mom and Pop for having done what they had to do anyway? Nothing! It was just their bad luck if they'd bitten off more than they could chew. And BUT DE CHIEF! up to Uncle Sam to balance the budget.

WHICH, undoubtedly, a fat majority will declare to be both just and sensible. But I, for one, think it's damnable! We've made mistakes in our national record, but we've never sunk so low as we're doing now, in this widespread effort to HANG THE OLD FOLKS ON UNCLE SAM. Such a move is more than a matter of economics . . . goes deeper than federal law or obligation. It touches the very roots of life and character. It's true that the Young Generation "didn't ask to be born." But just try and liquidate them, and hear them yell!

The greatest gift in life is life itself. And you can't pay that gift by a state ruling or a federal tax any more than you can bear a baby by mathematics. It takes love to bring a child to birth—and only love can repay that sacred obligation.

The Secretary of Commerce didn't go down into the valley of the shadow of death that you might live. . . . The Postmaster General didn't put a plaster on the farm to put you through college. You're the product of a weary man and a worried woman. And if you're not willing to protect them in their helplessness as they protected you in yours, you're a tramp. AND I DON'T MEAN MAYBE!

Timely Editorial

Blame the Parents.

Parents and teachers fail of their responsibility if they do not teach children to know the difference between fun and mischief, and particularly between harmless pranks and lawbreaking. Good citizens young and old must have respect for law and must obey lawful authority.

In the youthful mind the big idea of Halloween is fun. It is an idea to be encouraged but directed. There is no fun in destruction of property. There is no right fun in joining mobs to resist the police. Such conduct is lawbreaking and disorder and should be repugnant to all right-thinking boys and girls.

That good leadership can keep young people out of these offensive forms of Halloween celebration. Civic organizations, churches and other groups that have turned attention to the matter, have found the children taking part eagerly.

The children are all right. All they need is guidance.—Detroit News.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—In these uncertain times, making plans for a junket as far ahead as April is optimism plus, but Roosevelt is doing it just the same.

If conditions permit he intends to make the transcontinental trip in April which he had scheduled for this fall but had to call off because of war.

The president revealed his plan to Illinois Representatives Sabath, McKeough and Kelly when they personally invited him to address the Chicago Army day celebration next April.

"I think that can be arranged," he told them. "If I can get away from Washington, I intend to make a swing across the country about that time and will be delighted to stop off in Chicago. Of course, I can't make a definite promise to be there on Army day until the itinerary has been worked out, but if it can be arranged, I'll be there."

He added that he had in mind a "leisurely trip to view old scenes and renew old friendships," and that if San Francisco's fair is reopened and running, he will spend at least one day there.

"It was a real regret to me not to be able to get there this year," he said. "I wanted to see that fair very much. I saw it while it still was under construction and it must have been a beauty."

The president did not amplify what he meant by a leisurely trip to view old scenes and renew old friendships, and his visitors did not ask him. But as they rode down Pennsylvania avenue to their Capitol offices they wondered whether he was planning a farewell tour or an expedition to sound out public sentiment toward a third term.

German Diplomats.

MOST unenviable position of any lady in the diplomatic corps today is Frau Thomsen's, wife of the charge d'affaires of the German embassy.

Frau Thomsen is one of the most beautiful members of the diplomatic corps and also one of the most charming. Hungarian by birth, she may or may not sympathize with Hitler, probably does not. But feeling in Washington is such that regardless of her personal views, the wife of any German diplomat can be none too happy.

An indication of this was given the other day when Frau Thomsen remarked to a friend:

"I did not buy any clothes in Europe before I came, thinking I would buy them here. But now since the war started it looks as if I wouldn't buy any at all. There is no occasion to wear them."

Are You Capable Of Driving Auto

—By DR. CLENDENING

TESTS to determine whether an owner is capable of driving an automobile are applied in a very careless and incomplete way. Automobiles have now taken rank as more dangerous than pneumonia on the American continent, yet no states and municipalities take no particular care to rule out the unfit among drivers, and regard with cynical complacency the rules which could be enforced to forbid dangerous drivers from jeopardizing the lives of their fellow citizens.

A complete examination of applicants for a driver's license should have three parts—physical condition, mental condition and vision. The last is the most important.

There are several aspects of vision which must be considered: The psychologic aspect, which includes the synthesis of visual sensation into perception and its modification by bad judgment, bad attitude and mental disease. This is common enough. The habitual accident creator is defective in some way on the psychologic side, and excuses made for him are used off the record because his trouble is too deep to be corrected by good intentions.

In Ashland, all candidates run on a non-partisan ticket.

Re-elected was Lotta Westover for director of finance over Joseph B. Stookey, 2,843 to 1,661. George F. Gongwer was unopposed for director of law, as was C. F. Crahan for council-at-large, and Chester G. Walz for first ward councilman. Gongwer and Walz are incumbents.

In the second ward Richard H. Paxton defeated R. E. Jordan for the council seat, 2,394 to 1,716. Both are newcomers in politics. Jack B. Lutz was unopposed for the third ward council seat, while in the fourth ward, Bryan A. Easterday defeated Vinton Berry, 2,380 to 1,586.

C. A. Davies was named township clerk, defeating C. M. Aber and Claude McMillen. E. Davies polled 2,528 votes to 1,167 for Aber and 741 for McMillen.

Charles E. Miller was elected trustee over C. L. Arnhold, 3,251 to 1,506.

Both Ashland city and county turned down all four state amendments, dealing especially decisive blows to the two Bigelow plans.

On the Bigelow pension plan, the city was 3,866 against and 585 for, while in the county the vote on this proposal was 5,066 against and 614 for. The city voted against the initiative petition plan 3,739 to 598 and the county figure was 4,803 against to 537 for.

Both also turned down the state board of education proposal and the civil service referendum. On the former the city vote was 2,320 against and 1,070 for, while the county voted 3,503 against and 1,612 for. On the latter, the city vote was 2,249 against and 1,864 for, while the county total was 3,373 against and 1,518 for.

OFFER FAILS TO BRIGHTEN HOPES

Belgian-Netherlands Offer to Mediate in War Expected to Get 'Consideration.'

(Continued From Page 1) asserted the Halifax speech made a German reply scarcely necessary and interpreted it as a negative British answer to the mediation offer.

The German high command reported "livelier" activity on the western front by artillery and scouting patrols. They said Germany had lost five planes and the allies seven during the first week of November.

Unofficial French dispatches asserted 12 or 13 German planes had been brought down in an aerial battle Monday. The previous official claim was that nine of 27 German planes were downed.

Two unidentified planes were reported to have flown over Paris early yesterday dropping leaflets repeating parts of the speech of Russian Premier Molotov made Oct. 31 in which he mentioned closer German-Russian cooperation.

It was not determined whether the planes were flown by Germans or by French Communists who oppose continuation of the war.

Italian newspapers joined in reprinting an article by Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist, which accused Russia of applying dangerous pressure on the Balkans and of partial responsibility for the war.

BIGELOW LOSES, SAYS HE'LL TRY AGAIN IN 1940

Pensions and 3 Other Issues Swamped; Pastor Announces Plans for New Drive.

Republican leaders declared they had feared such an outcome, explaining that large numbers of the voters balloted "no" against all of the state issues in order to be sure they were disapproving the Bigelow amendments.

Returns from 8,568 out of 8,589 precincts showed: Board of education — 736,268 for, 1,113,909 against. Civil service act 642,229 for, 1,106,187 against.

"In view of the fact that Mr. Brucker made a state-wide radio appeal in defense of both the board of education and the civil service ripper bill, the results of the election would seem to be a rebuke from the people of Ohio," commented Democratic headquarters.

Both Republicans and Democrats, however, were joined with business, civic and fraternal leaders in opposing the Bigelow amendments which they claimed would "bankrupt" the state and "wreck representative government."

Bigelow, Cincinnati preacher, politician and former congressman, was aided by a comparative handful of volunteer workers. He charged that the opposition continually distorted his objectives. His plans were endorsed by the Ohio AFL and CIO organizations.

Chairman B. B. Brumley of the Ohio emergency commission, which directed the opposition fight, declared that "this landslide vote against these two radical proposals serves notice that Ohio citizens will not be deluded by suggestions of this kind either now or in the future."

"The overwhelming vote shows that the people want safe and sane government," added James L. E. Jappe, Cleveland manager of the committee.

Bigelow, receiving the returns in a loft office of an old Cincinnati lodge building, acknowledged defeat two hours and 55 minutes after the polls closed at 6:30 p. m. Expressing determination to carry on the fight, he said:

Tax Misunderstood. "There has been bitter misunderstanding about the proposed tax for the pension proposal and this could be cleared up by clarifying the wording.

"The sentiment of the people will not accept this defeat and there will be no fundamental change in the proposal. Once the language has been put in more definite terms, it will not be subject to such misconceptions as influenced this vote."

Bigelow had proposed that the pension plan, which he estimated would not cost more than $60,000,000 a year, be financed by an income tax amounting to one-fourth the federal levy and a tax on land valued at $20,000 an acre.

He challenged opposition contentions that the land tax also would apply to improvements, but they pointed to court decisions holding this to be true where land alone was not specified. Opponents also pointed out if such were the case it would hurt many persons Bigelow sought to aid.

Bigelow also disputed bitterly estimates of state officials and the emergency committee that the plan would cost $310,000,000 yearly. They reported that the proposed taxes would yield only a fifth of that amount.

Ohio and the federal government now finance equally pensions averaging $23 monthly to 122,000 Ohio needy persons over 65.

The Bigelow plan would have guaranteed incomes to all persons over 60 who had been wage earners and were retired. If a couple had in income of $30 a month, however, they would have been entitled only to $50 from the state to make their total $80.

Opponents also contended that if Ohio adopted such a pension plan it would lose grants from the federal government. Bigelow denied this, but in drafting his new plan he said it would contain a provision to assure federal support.

Bigelow proposed his second amendment as a means of putting his pension plan into operation if the legislature refused to do so. It would have made it easier to obtain a direct vote on constitutional amendments and laws.

Republicans submitted the education board amendment with a plea that it would take the department out of "politics." They were supported by organizations of teachers and parents.

Claim Ouster Move. Democrats viewed the amendment only as a move to oust E. N. Dietrich, a holdover from the Democratic D. A. C. administration whose term does not expire until July 1, 1941.

The Democrats after an involved court battle obtained a referendum on the civil service reorganization bill, which they contended would "rape the civil service system."

Republicans argued that under the supreme court's interpretation of the present civil service law, giving provisional employees full civil service status until they were discharged for cause, hundreds of Davey employees were "frozen" into the state service.

DEMS GAIN ONE SEAT IN COUNCIL

Majority Boosted to 6 to 3 as Late Count Gives Emmons 26-Vote Victory.

The three Republicans will be Russell D. Porch, First ward, Charles N. Shultz, Second ward, and George C. Kyle, Third ward. One New Member.

Three Republicans and three Democrats won re-election yesterday. Despite the Democratic gain in representation, there will be but one new member of council next year, though the make-up of the body will differ in several details.

The newcomers are Kutschall, youthful proprietor of a North Main street shoe repair shop. He defeated Harry E. Ross, 29-year-old Republican candidate. Kutschall takes the seat of Lester D. Hunter, present Democratic member of council, whom he defeated in the August primary.

The representatives of the other wards remain unchanged, all having been re-elected. Minor changes occurred however in the council at large set-up.

Smith, who was named to council by the membership of that body when Berg, president pro tem, was called on to assume the presidency of council after the death of President Karl P. Troll, succeeded in winning election to one of the three at-large seats.

Berg, running again for an at-large seat, was also successful. James E. Crum, the only Republican councilman-at-large now holding office, did not seek re-election.

Smith led the council-at-large candidates, polling 6,467 votes. In the runner-up position was Berg with 6,229, while Emmons' closing rally gave him the third seat.

The losers, all Republicans, were Anderson with 5,636, P. W. Backenstos with 5,134 and James W. Peyton with 4,908.

In the First ward race, Potch defeated Fred Wilkinson, 1,626 to 1,155. Shultz was unopposed in the Second ward but received 1,232 complimentary votes.

George C. Kyle defeated Henry A. Beilstein in the Third ward, 1,483 to 1,104, and in the Fourth ward, Kutschall defeated Ross, 678 to 538.

Fred Miller continued to rule supreme in the Fifth ward, swamping Roy E. McCartney, his Republican opponent, 837 to 16, and in the Sixth ward Croak was re-elected over Republican B. L. Gouge, 1,052 to 771.

FEEDS 'EM, WINS

Successful Mayoralty Candidate Gives Workers Sandwiches, Coffee

YOUNGSTOWN—(INS)—William B. Spagnola, elected mayor of Youngstown, was pronounced today that the way to a voter's heart is through his stomach.

Backers of Spagnola's campaign furnished automobiles loaded with sandwiches and coffee which toured the polling places yesterday and fed Spagnola workers.

The Loser and Winner Shake

Here are victor and vanquished shaking hands—Mayor Claude M. Hunter, left, congratulates William J. Locke, Republican, who defeated him at the polls yesterday and who will succeed him as the city's chief executive on Jan. 1. The picture was snapped at the election board offices last night as the two opponents watched returns come in.

Auto Too Small, Takes 6 to Pen In Station Wagon

Six prisoners were too many for one car and not enough for two cars, so Sheriff E. P. Long borrowed the county engineer's station wagon to take them to the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus yesterday afternoon.

The prisoners were seated in the back of the light truck and shackled with handcuffs. The sheriff said he had no trouble with them.

The group, sentenced Saturday by Common Pleas Judge C.

H. Huston were Oscar Hughes, 30, colored, of Toledo, who will serve from one to five years for possessing narcotic drugs; Truman Thomas, 37, Bellville, one to three years for non-support; Robert Ryan, 36, Mansfield, one to three years for non-support; Albert Walker, 38, colored, Mansfield, one to 20 years for cutting with intent to wound; Kenneth Wheatcraft, 35, Bellville, and Francis Shaffer, 33, Bellville, both one to three years for non-support.

C. L. Patten, 25, of Perrysville, was taken to the Mansfield reformatory to begin a one-to-20-year term for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

FRACTURES LEG — IT'S 16TH TIME

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(AP)—Johnny DeWitt, 11, wants to be a cowboy, but his chances are not very good. He is in the hospital for the 16th time with a broken leg.

Physicians say he is the victim of a malady known as fragilitas ossium—brittle bones.

Johnny will crumple to the ground at the least bump. The breaks occur only in his legs. His sixteenth mishap occurred when he fell off a chair and twisted the leg. Usually, he just trips. Once a playmate kicked him in the shins. He was in a cast for weeks then.

Every Meal A Pleasure Now Says Ohio Shoe Factory Man

Took Vendol and got amazing relief from constipation, also excess stomach acids, sour risings, shortness of breath, and other symptoms due to constipation. Says all sufferers should try it.

MR. FRANK CARROLL

"I wasn't really very ill, but was quite uncomfortable, when I began taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets, but I heard it was wonderful medicine for my troubles so got some, and am delighted with it," said Mr. Frank Carroll, of 210 E. Main Street, Columbus, Ohio, an employee of the H. C. Godman Co. Shoe Factory.

"I hardly spent a day without being constipated, and this condition made me feel bad in different ways such as, after eating my stomach would begin to turn sour, grumble, and gas would form in quantities which made my stomach feel swollen and pressed against my heart and that caused shortness of breath and palpitation, and felt like I had a lump in my throat and a hot, sour, burning liquid would come up in my throat.

"Another result of this constipation was to make me restless at night so that my sleep failed to do much good and I'd get up feeling bad, often with a coated tongue, bad breath, and awful taste in my mouth.

"Since taking Vendol and getting the grandest relief I'd known in years from constipation, I am feeling like a different person and every meal is a pleasure. This relief from constipation brought relief from the sour, excess acid, upset condition in my stomach, then all those annoying symptoms passed off and no longer bother me.

"I think that Vendol is a wonderful compound and advise anyone who suffers like I did from the same cause, to get Vendol at once and they will never be sorry."

Give Vendol a chance to help you, too; try this medicine made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added. All leading druggists sell it and the Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., to explain all about it, so see him today.—Adv.

$5 FOR PAINS

SANTA CRUZ, Calif.—(AP)—It took a three-day verbal battle in Superior court here before $5 damages were awarded Roberta McClintic in her suit against Matthew Kirchen. The complaint said Kirchen trespassed on McClintic property to cut branches of a tree. Kirchen, in a cross-complaint asking $500 damages, maintained the tree was shedding leaves on his property.

LEGACY OF LOVE + + + + +

CHAPTER XX

She wiped away his kiss with the back of her hand, wondering if outward show was all he thought about. There had been no real tenderness in his kiss. Did he want a good-looking wife to exploit the Brewster wealth and prestige? Was he incapable of feeling that which made marriage a success?

Her tortured eyes followed his medium-height, slim-hipped figure going down the drive to where his big white coupe was parked. Her mouth began an uncontrollable trembling. She dropped her face to her hands and cried.

She heard Miss Graves coming up the stairs leading from the rose garden to the sun deck. She quickly dried her eyes on the edge of her chiffon sleeve, tried to look composed.

Miss Graves paused beside Rita's chair with a glass of orange juice in one hand and a letter in the other. She said, giving Rita the letter, "A messenger just brought this."

"Oh, thank you. Another note of sympathy? People have been awfully kind to me—but I don't feel like reading this now."

She let the envelope drop to her lap. She reached for the orange juice, and gratefully, "Nice of you to bring me this, Miss Graves. How many gallons of orange juice do you suppose I've drunk since I've been an invalid?"

She scarcely realized what she was saying. She suddenly knew that Miss Graves was scrutinizing her closely, saw her get out her thermometer. She put the thermometer into Rita's mouth, saying, firmly, "You've had enough sun today—there's such a thing as getting too much. I'll call Preston and Dollar—get you back up stairs." Preston was the Brewster chauffeur, and Dollar the butler.

Rita's hand strayed to the envelope in her lap. But even now she had no presentiment of the unusual. She would wait to read the note up in her sitting-room. It would be something to do. Time hung heavily on her hands these days, and every little incident was something to cherish. Selia was bobbing around socially as much as usual, only now and then coming to Rita about some problem that annoyed her and that Rita could help untangle.

But Rita's fever was only slight and nothing to be alarmed about. However, Miss Graves, an excellent nurse, was taking no chances. She had Rita carried back to her pink and gray and white sitting-room. Dollar adjusted the blinds, and Miss Graves fixed plump pillows at Rita's back, then went downstairs for luncheon.

Dollar said from the doorway, "Mr. Roger said he would have luncheon with you, Miss Rhodes—at 1:30."

"Thank you, Dollar." Rita glanced at her wrist watch. She would be alone for only a little while. In exactly one hour Roger would be here—with the ring! Soon she would be wearing the ring—and her future would be tied in a tight knot.

Then she heard something that startled her. She realized it was herself, laughing aloud. But by no stretch of the imagination could it be called a merry laugh. Was she losing her mind?

Something slipped from her lap to the rug, and she sat up abruptly. She had forgotten that note, letter, bill or whatever it was. She snatched it up, jarred her ankle, and winced with pain. She leaned back against the pillows until her giddiness vanished. Finally, she unfolded a sheet of paper, and read the typed words. "Dear Miss Rhodes: 'You know too much about that shooting on the beach! So keep it under your hat! Nough said!'"

"A Friend."

A strange excitement raced through her. The pupils of her eyes grew big and dark, her mouth fell open. She pulled herself up by her elbows.

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed frantically. "Who could have sent this? That case hasn't been discussed in months! Did the murderer send this? He—must have!" And there was Tom! He had acted peculiarly about the affair from the very first, so strangely that she—oh, no, she mustn't think this of Tom! Everything about him defied implication of this kind. But did that indicate anything? Murderers didn't always look the part.

But—had Tom taken this roundabout way to make her obey him through fear?

She was filled with acute foreboding of calamity.

Rita rang for the butler and asked for the morning papers. She hunted through them feverishly for mention of that murder on the beach, but found nothing. It was preposterous to think the murderer knew she had seen him running away that night—unless the man who fired that shot—was Tom.

She decided to call up Tom.

snapped back the lid. "Oh—how gorgeous!" came from her appreciatively. "It's perfectly beautiful."

She slipped the ring on her left hand, gazed down reflectively at the large, perfect stone. She knew that rubies like this came high, and that Roger—or his father—must have paid a small fortune for it. She was, it seemed, to be decorated like a queen in all her glory—and not so long ago she would have been content to marry a man whom she thought drove a car to earn a living. Even now—but she must not allow herself to think about this.

"Why so sober, darling?" asked Roger. "Doesn't it suit you? There was a sapphire I might have..."

"Sapphire?" She shivered. "I hate sapphires! This is—perfectly stunning—and exactly fits. It's—too lovely for me, Roger."

He bent down and kissed her hot cheek, laid his face against it a fleeting instant, straightened.

"Nothing on earth is too lovely for you, my sweet—you'll see I'll give you everything. You'll be Mrs. Roger Brewster—the best-groomed, most beautiful woman in all the world."

"Extravagant you!" she laughed.

ed. "That reputation would be a terrific waste—I never could live up to it." (To Be Continued.)
